

As part of its initiative to advance commercial transparency in the shipping industry, TRACE is partnering with Worldwide Project Consortium (WWPC) to bring information and awareness of anti-corruption tools and solutions to project cargo forwarding companies. WWPC will assist TRACE to bring information to the members of the WWPC and thus contribute to the project cargo forwarding industry to mitigate risks with customers and clients all over the world and to conduct business in a transparent and ethical manner.

About WWPC

Founded in 1998, the Worldwide Project Consortium represents a top brand easily recognized within the project cargo industry. It connects independent project cargo forwarding companies under one umbrella. The philosophy to offer the best expertise through outstanding performances by the network's members is the formula behind the success and strength of the network. The network is administered and operated on a daily basis by professional, entrepreneurial project cargo managers. Through the WWPC shippers, carriers and forwarding partners have a first class reference source to locate the most professional project cargo specialists in the represented countries.

About TRACE

TRACE provides an end-to-end, cost-effective and practical solution for anti-bribery and third party compliance. TRACE International is a leading anti-bribery business association that pools resources to provide members with technology-enabled compliance tools and an expansive knowledge center. TRACE members include hundreds of multinational corporations, as well as thousands of small and medium-sized enterprises throughout the world. TRACE International works with TRACE Incorporated to offer both members and non-members customizable risk-based due diligence, training and advisory services. With a shared mission to advance commercial transparency, TRACE International and TRACE Incorporated provide companies with one complete anti-bribery and third party compliance solution.